

After adoption

Little support is available for birth parents when their children are taken away for adoption. But, for the past four years, an independent counselling service in Northamptonshire has been providing them with much needed support

by Clare Pointon

